First Released On: 02/17/2011

Suite Description:

This suite provides you with an overview of the major steps involved in bringing a medical device to the market starting from the initial idea, protecting the idea all the way through to keeping a medical device safely on the market and ensure continuous improvement.

Courses are presented in a logical sequence thereby providing the learner with a clear overview of the different tasks involved while referring to more in depth courses available at WMDO on the different topics, but allowing the learner to get the full picture of the different elements involved in a minimum of time.

This Suite Includes:

Course1: The Lifecycle of Medical Devices from Idea to Market

Course2: Creating Value in Healthcare

Course3: Introduction to the EU Regulatory System

Course4: What is considered a Medical Device?

Course5: Steps to CE Mark

Course6: The Main Concepts for Safe and Performing Devices

Course7: Overview of the Medical Device Design and Development Process

Course8: Clinical Evaluation of Medical Devices: an Introduction

Course9: Post Market Surveillance: an Introduction

Course10: Intellectual Property Concepts for Medical Devices

Learning Objectives:

Upon completion of this course, trainees will be able to correctly and successfully:

- Comprehend what medical devices are about.
- Plan the different activities and related resources needed to get a medical device through its lifecycle.
- Identify where their specialty fits within all the other activities involved throughout the lifecycle of a medical device.
- Interact with colleagues and realize the interrelationships between the key activities during each step of the medical device lifecycle.

Executive management will be able to organize their activities and ensure effective collaboration between engineering, legal, regulatory, clinical and sales & marketing managers in their company.
